

Abstract

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of identifying decorative products based on matching with paint colors. The method includes the use of a relational database having data on various decorative product types which are cross-referenced to each other via color values.